

2.RL.6 Parent Helper

I CAN TELL ABOUT THE DIFFERENCES IN POINTS OF VIEW OF CHARACTERS. I CAN SPEAK IN DIFFERENT VOICES FOR EACH CHARACTER WHEN READING A STORY ALOUD.

Your child is learning to differentiate between different characters and their points of view.

Sample Questions To Ask Your Child:

Who are the characters in this story? How are they alike? Different? Can you change your voice so it sounds different for each character?
How might the character read this line?
Would you think the same way as this character?
How does ___ feel about ___?
Who is telling the story?

Vocabulary Terms:

Character
Problem/Solution
Point of View
Narrator
Dialogue
Opinion
Compare/Contrast

Need more resources?

Ever heard the story of The Three Little Pigs? Now, have you heard the Wolf's version? You can read your child The True Story of the Three Little Pigs by Jon Scieska. Talk about how the stories are different based on who is telling them in each story.

You can look up most fairy tales on YouTube and watch videos of the story. Then, you can have your child write their own version from a different character's point of view.

Here are some more examples:

Cinderella (traditional)

Seriously, Cinderella is So Annoying by Trisha Speed Shaskan

Little Red Riding Hood (traditional)

Honestly, Red Riding Hood Was Rotten! By Trisha Speed Shaskan

Goldilocks and the Three Bears (traditional)

Believe Me, Goldilocks Rocks! By Nancy Loewen

Jack and The Beanstalk (traditional)

Trust Me, Jack's Beanstalk Stinks! By Eric Braun

You can get these fractured fairytales on Amazon.com by searching "Other Side of The Story Fairy Tales"